LOGLINE:

Charlie Fleck, a 29-year-old aspiring videogame designer, is given the opportunity of a lifetime to further his career with a time-stopping device given to him by an eccentric Vintage Toy shop owner Gibbs.

STORY SUMMARY:

An indie video game designer gets a chance at making a big time game but doesn't have the time until he discovers a mysterious time-stopping device that helps him but at the cost of his friends and family.

IT'S LIKE:

Tonally like Click meets Indie Game: The Movie. Light hearted and good themes of tribe vs self.

CHARACTER BIOS

LUCAS

Late 20s/Early 30s – Character friend, lovable nerd. Gamer from 12 years old. – Best friends of Main Character CHARLIE.

BRIAN

Late 20s/Early 30s – Quiet friend, likeable. The computer programmer of the friend group. Gamer from 12 years old. He is silent most of the film and then has an important, thematic monologue near the end of the film – Think Silent Bob in Clerks.

MOM

30s/40s - Charlie's mother - Instantly lovable, tender, heart-warming and inspiring. A Sarah Paulson, Jennifer Garner, Reese Witherspoon type

BILL (Dad)

60s/70s - Charlie's father - An aging father with severe memory/dementia issues. A Dennis Quaid or Michael Rooker type.

MILES

30s/40s – - Will Arnet in Hot Rod Positive and ambitious, successful but not in what he wants to be successful at, a “funny cocky” type-boss of a game development company with a mobile-game called “Sugar Crush”

SHERYL

60s/70s – She runs Human Resources department for Miles at his game publishing company. She's always been in HR and will always be in HR. Probably humorously stuck in the 1970's in her style.

UBER DRIVER

Any age – Lots of room to play here for the actors/actresses.

BARBARA

Late 20's to Early 40s – Game Designer with an attitude. Has had some early success and created a big ego in her. Sassy/Cocky/Confident

YOUNG BREE

Can play 12 – A younger version of the character Bree. May need to die hair to match actress as Bree.

YOUNG CHARLIE/YOUNG LUCAS/YOUNG BRIAN

Can play 12 – A younger version of the characters Charlie, Lucas, and Brian. May need to die hair to match actors. (Use Wyatt/Gary sides for these auditions)

YOUNG WYATT/GARY

12 – Two youth on bikes who set up the character of Gibbs as a man of mystery. Very 80's style scene.
